PREFACE

Being told that a severe heart condition will necessitate retirement in the prime of life is a bitter pill for any active human to swallow.

This was the pronouncement of my doctors after two severe heart attacks, one in 1950 and one in 1956. However, I do not feel that my retirement has been futile, for I have embarked on one of the most fascinating and useful ventures of my life—connecting and publishing a certain amount of data on the Pace family line.

Having been an active seedsman and grain dealer from 1923 to 1956 in Cleveland, Mississippi, I was somewhat unprepared to leave an active life. My doctors advised me to find a hobby that would not be strenuous. I had dabbled some in family genealogy but not enough to ever make it a full-time job.

This publication is a good example of my inadequacy. I knew nothing of composing manuscript, problems of having a publication printed, the ways and means to trace a family life, and even how to select a substantial title for the publication.

I have learned much about these things during the last six years, but I realize there is much more to learn. If there are mistakes in this publication, I hope they can be forgiven. I have put forth my best effort in good faith in establishing the Pace Society of America in publishing this manuscript.

There are still many gaps to be filled, as this publication will illustrate, and these gaps can only be filled by Paces who have access to records that will complete the lineage. It is my purpose in this book to present a need to collect more material about the Pace family before a full-length book can be published.

This publication is an effort to acquaint Paces throughout the United States with their name-sakes who were part of the hammering of the American civilization and culture from the early raw days of this country to the now most privileged nation on earth.

The Pace family, though generously endowed with the great and the honored, has not been known as a wealthy family. It could well be said that they have been too busy serving their fellowmen to acquire large storehouses of wealth.

Notable examples are the many scientists, educators, career public servants, churchmen, businessmen and industrialists who have carved a niche for themselves in the history of this nation.

WHY YOU HAVE A PACE NAME

Only personal names doubtless originated soon after the invention of the spoken language, although the date of their first use is lost in the darkness of the ages preceding recording history. For a thousand years, thereafter, first or given names were the only designations that men and women bore; and in the dawn of historic times, when the world was less crowded than as of today and every man knew his neighbor, one title was sufficient.

Only gradually with the passing centuries and the increasing complexities of civilized society did the need arise for more specific designations. While the root of our system of family names may be traced back to early civilized times, actually the hereditary surnames, as we know today, date from a time scarcely earlier than nine hundred years ago.

A surname is a name added to a baptismal name or Christian name for the purpose of making it more specific and of indicating family relationship or descendant.

Classified according to the origin, most surnames fall into four general classifications: one, those arising from bodily or personal characteristics; two, those from locality or place of residence; and four, those derived from an occupation. It is easier to understand the story of the development of our institution of surnames if these classifications are borne in mind.

The name Pace is said to have been used originally as a baptismal name, having been derived from the provincial name for "Easter" and taken from the Latin "Pacha". It is found in ancient English and early American records in various forms of spelling, namely, Pacey, Pacye, Pacy, Pacie, Pase, Pass, Pash, Pache, Payse, and Pace, the latter of which is the spelling most generally used in America today. The spelling of the name Pace began just prior to the reign of King Henry VIII.

Families bearing the name Pace were found at an early date in the English Counties of Nottingham, Lincoln, Leichestershire, Devon, Oxford, Hart, Middlesex, Sussex, Cambridge, Norfolk, and York, as well as in the city of London. These lines, for the most part, were of the land gentry and yeomanry of Great Britain. Among the earliest of those were William Pace of Dovenhire, about 1271, Hugh Pacy of Nottinghamshire, 1273; William Pacy of Lincolnshire of an earlier date; Richard Duct Pas of Cambridge, 1273; Hugh Filinis Pasche, Joseph Pach and Feliciarelicta Pache of Cambridgeshire, 1273; Robert Pashe, County of Sussex, 1273; Nigel Pas of Norfolk County as a slightly earlier date; Robert Pasche and Thomas Pasch of Yorkshire, 1379; William and Johanna Pas, Yorkshire, 1379.

John Pace of Leichestershire, England, in the early fifteenth century, is recorded as being the father of Thomas Pace and John Pace. The first mentioned John Pace was married to Margaret Colby, daughter of William Colby and Alice Houghton Colby. Thomas Pace later became the Bishop of Bangor. The second John Pace married Alice Reade, daughter of Richard Reade. They had at least one son who was named Thomas. He was married to Elizabeth Southbourn of Touchborne of Hampshire and they had a daughter, Alice, and possibly other children.

Certainty of Richard Pace (sometimes recorded as Pacie or Pacey) is that he was born in Hampshire, England, about 1483; but some historians have asserted that he was the brother of Thomas Pace of Leichestershire. This Richard Pace was known to have had a brother John, both of whom were prominent in the court of King Henry VIII.

Richard Pace, known as the Tudor diplomat, worked along with Cardinal Woolsey and Erasmus. It is said that Cardinal Woolsey was somewhat jealous of Richard Pace and used his influence to keep him on the European continent as English Ambassador to Italy, working for the King's cause and away from the court. Richard Pace was a very official in the Church and wrote an opinion or took a stand in favor of Henry VIII, divorcing Catherine of Aragon.

He was very artistic and was a music connoisseur, however, it is thought that he was not physically strong. Canterbury Church in England today contains a plaque showing his position in the Church. It is said that he helped write the King James version of the Bible and worked primarily on the Book of Psalms.

Richard's brother, John, was living in Norfolk in 1522 and is believed to have had at least two sons, John and Thomas, of whom the first was a Court Jester.

Among other records of the family in England during this period there is mentioned Richard Pace, Vicar of Stepheny, county of Middlesex, before 1539, who was admitted to King College, Cambridge; Alexandria Pacye of Oxford University in 1564; Elizabeth Pace of London, 1583; and Barnard Paise or Paice, who married Elizabeth Sureby in London in 1616.

It is generally accepted that the Pace's of Jamestown and consequently the lineage of those in America descended from John Pace, brother of Richard Pace, who was prominent in the court of King Henry VIII.

The name Pace: Uncommon in England, most likely of Italian origin. Counties in which the family chiefly resided and are still resident:

Hampshire: contain the earliest records of the Pace family dating from about 1480,

Berkshire: spread from Hampshire.

London: Also I believe settlement from Hampshire. There were more Paces in London about 1600-1800 than there are to the present time.

Gloustershire: From 1600-1800, contained a small branch of the family.

Cheshire: Settled about 1650, many descendants still living in county.

Shropshire: Settled about 1680, many descendants scattered broadcast.

Northumberland: In 1850 contained about 50 Paces, present day only a few possibly from side branch from Shropshire and Cheshire.

Durham: From Northumberland

Sussex: A small branch of the Pace (a family resided here for several hundred years).

The English Lineage chart and Charles Pace letter to Edward Pace was given by Mrs. Arthur Cochran Adam of Jacksonville, Fla. The records of John Pace was taken from the records found in Richard Pace the Tudor Diplomat by Weggs.

Edward A. Pace, Esq.

Dear Sir:

I am enclosing a pedigree of the early Paces, which will no doubt interest you as a member of the family. I should be very pleased to hear from you if you have any particulars of the American Paces, or you know of any of our name living in the states. There are apparently some descendants from the family of the Bishop Thomas Pace (?) in your country for an accredited book-plate emblazons his Armorial Coat. Archbishop Peter Pace of Malta was knighted by King Edward VII. There is, however, no modern connection with the English Paces. He is the son of Francis Pace of Gozo (Italy).

The name is uncommon in England and seems to have originated in the Southern Counties and spread Northwards. As far as I know there is no locality where the name can be termed common. Newbold Pacey, a village not far from Shottery took its name from its early possessors the Pacey (Pace) family.

Believe me - Dear Sir

Faithfully yours

THE PACES OF JAMESTOWN

The American Pace family began with Richard and Isabella Pace in Jamestown, Virginia. They, like many of the early settlers of Jamestown, were among the noble class of England. The exact time of the arrival of Richard and Isabella has not been determined. It is not known on which ship they sailed.

Richard and Isabella were given a land grant in Jamestown. Persons who were given these grants were required to be in the colony prior to 1616. However, it has not been explained why Richard and Isabella were given a grant in 1620. Along with Francis Chapman and William Perry, Richard and Isabella took their grant across the James River from the Jamestown fort. Their plantation was known as Paces Paines.

Religion was an important factor in the early days of Jamestown. One of the first buildings built was a church. Samuel Maycock was brought to Jamestown from England as a minister to the church. He was given a grant of land, north of Jamestown on the James River and the plantation was named Maycock.

After the March, 1622 massacre, the infant daughter of Samuel Maycock, Sarah, was found alive. Other dwellers of the Maycock plantation had been killed by the Indians. It is thought that Sarah was about four months old at the time of the Indian raid. She later married George, son of Richard and Isabella Pace.

Not much is known of the personalities of Richard and Isabella Pace. He was evidently a very good man as he risked his life to warn the Jamestown settlers of the impending Indian massacre. Some genealogists picture Isabella as a sharp-tongued, gossiping woman. Court records of Jamestown show that she appeared as a witness in trials of witches and other scandalous crimes of the colony.

The death date of Richard Pace is not known. Upon his death Isabella married a Captain Perry, 1628. Historical records show some discrepancy as to where Isabella and Captain Perry moved after their marriage. Some indicate that they remained at Pace's Paines and others show that they moved to Captain Perry's plantation.

George Pace, whose birthdate is not known, apparently married Sarah Maycock about 1637. He had apparently reached adulthood about 1627, for records show that he confirmed transactions of his mother in that year. George apparently moved to the Maycock plantation after his marriage to Sarah.

Some historical records hold that Isabella married a third time after the death of Captain Perry, but this has not been established as a fact.

However, Paces Paines was sold and the plantation belonged to several different owners. Land records show ownership of a Ravencroft, George Hamlin and a Mr. Drew. The plantation was later included in what was known as Burrow's Hill and still later in Swan's Point.

Today a historical marker on Highway 10 commemorates Richard Pace and Chanco for their heroic saving of Jamestown from the Indian massacre.

RICHARD PACE AND THE INDIAN

Had it not been for a certain Richard Pace and an Indian boy, Chanco, who he befriended, the development of English settlements in America would probably have failed or have been delayed for many years.

Richard Pace and his wife, Isabella, had settled in Jamestown during the early 1600's. The exact date of their arrival has not been determined.

The early days of Jamestown was those of almost inhuman livability for the settlers. Disease, starvation and attacks from Indians took their toll of lives and property. The town was burned repeatedly.

Captain John Smith has been given the credit in the pages of history of saving Jamestown. However, it appears that had it not been for Richard Pace and Chanco in 1622, the settlement would have been completely wiped out.

An Indian chief, Powatan had been friendly with John Smith and the colonists. When he died in the early 1620's, his brother Opechankano, became chief.

This new chief resented the white man and scheming as servants were living near the households of the colonists or worked to completely destroy the colonists.

Richard Pace had taken into his home, the Indian boy, Chanco, as perhaps a playmate for his son, George. As a matter of course, the Indian boy was taught the Christian religion. Chanco idolized his master and his white boy play-mate.

When the word was spread among the Indians for the massacre, March 22, 1622, Chanco was conscience stricken. He felt a certain loyalty to his Indian ancestors. Yet, the teachings of the Christian religion had taught him that murder was sinful.

Chanco's Christian spirit was triumphant. He told his master Richard Pace of the impending danger. Mr. Pace at once secured his own household and went hurriedly across the James River to warn the colonists at Jamestown.

The colonists made ample preparation for the Indian raids and consequently much of Jamestown and its settlers were saved. However, word of the massacre did not reach outlying settlements and they were totally destroyed. There were 31 plantations destroyed and 341 men, women, and children known killed.

As in years later, the pages of American history were written, this most important incident of Jamestown was omitted. It is because no family records were kept of the incident and it was not until several generations later that the circumstances surrounding the saving of Jamestown were recorded in the pages of historical publications. However, our American history books have continually ignored the Richard Pace and Chanco friendship and have not given credit for this pertinent act in the early history of Jamestown.

THE VIRGINIA PACES

A new era of history had dawned. The Jamestown colonists had passed the bitter test of survival after the Indian massacre of March 22, 1622. The new Americans had learned how to adjust to the hardships of a raw country. Exploration of the new country began and settlers began to move to new territory to make new lives for themselves.

The colonists soon found themselves burdened with a factor that was one of their main reasons for leaving England, a quintroll, a form of taxation for the benefit of the King or the colonists. There are authentically written records of the quintroll of 1704, which show Paces owning land in various counties in the Virginia colonies.

Among these were a John and Thomas Pace of Middlesex Parrish. The Parrish records show several Pace families in the period of the late 1600's to the early 1700s.

George Pace and Sarah Maycock had a son Richard. They also had a daughter Elizabeth, and records show that Paces Paines was owned by a Ravencroft and George Hamlin, who were presumed to be the husbands of Elizabeth.

It is thought that the children of Richard, the son of George, moved into the Carolinas. There are records of Richard receiving a land grant from Lord Granville in the early 1700s. His sons, Richard and John are recorded to have died in North Carolina leaving wills in Bertie County. John died in 1724 and Richard in 1736.

George Pace, the son of Richard and Mary, married a Woodlief and their known children were John and Richard.

In Henry County, Virginia, there are records of a John Pace, Newsome Pace, Langston Pace and Joel Pace. It is thought they were brothers. Joel Pace was a Revolutionary soldier. He married a Mary East and moved first to Kentucky and later to Mt. Vernon, Illinois. Newsome Pace married and moved to Kentucky and part of his family settled around Princeton, Indiana. Langston Pace's family settled near McComb, Illinois. Captain John Pace married twice, first to an Elizabeth Nunn and then to a Polly Stone. Of the first marriage, there were several children, three who were known as William Ingram Pace, Thomas Pace and John Martin Pace. William Ingram Pace settled in Barren and Metcalf County and many of his descendants live there today. Others lived in Terre Haute, Indiana and Lincoln, Nebraska and other parts of the United States. The children of the second marriage of Captain Pace stayed in Virginia and as second and third generations they moved to other parts of the country. Some of the Pace families in Martinsville, Danville and Roanoke are descendants of Captain Pace.

A Daniel Pace is recorded as having lived in Henry County. His relationship with the above four is not known, but some genealogists have accepted him as being a son of Ruben Pace, a brother of John Pace.

WINIFRED LANE AYCOCK LETTER

The following was sent to me by Mrs. R. E. Bell, of Atlanta, as the proof which was given her, and accepted, in connection with her application for membership in the Daughters of Founders & Patriots, based in the line of Richard Pace of Pace's Paines, through Richard Pace who died in 1738 in Bertie County, North Carolina. Maude McClure Kelley.

COPY

To Whom it May concern: I hereby certify that the data given below is a verbatim copy of part of a letter family record which Mrs. Loula Kendall Rogers possessed in her lifetime. I copied the entire record and the little Bible records from the original which had been in our family for years. This record was dim and so torn the last time I saw it that I doubt if it is legible now. I do not know to which of her children Mrs. Rogers left the original. I do know that my copy is correct. I have photostats of the land grant to Richard Pace in 1706. Data: "Lineage of the house of Lynneford Aycock and her husband Jesse Lane, all of Virginia, written by herself." Extract from paragraph six: My mother's maiden name was Rebecca Pace. She was born in the colony of Virginia. She was married to a Mr. William Bradford when she went to N. Car. After her father's death she married my father. I was born in _____. My grandfather Pace came to North Carolina in 1704. My grandfather was named Richard too. He lived in Virginia. Grandfather Pace had four brothers and three sisters, and all of them married and every one named one of the boys Richard because it was a family name. Grandfather Pace spelled his name PASE some time and he died before I was born but my mother came to Chowan in Albermarle North Carolina and she told me they lived on a river near a creek in Virginia that was next to my grandmother's house. My mother was born in a county in Virginia that is where five counties meet. Mother knew three of Grandfather's brothers, Uncle Thomas, John and George, but she never knew Uncle James, as he moved away. She said her three aunts had been to North Carolina and visited them. Aunt Elizabeth lived in the old home place, but Aunt Ann, Sarah moved to North Carolina. Grandfather was Richard Pace, Jr. I married in Johnston County and came to Georgia with a colony of North Carolinians in 1784. My mother died before I came here. She had two Bradford children, John and Tabitha."

The sketch from which this extract is taken was written in 1791, Mrs. Winifred Lane for her daughter, who afterwards gave it to her sister Winnfred, Mrs. James P. Rogers, my great grandmother and Mrs. Loula Kendall Rogers grandmother).

COMMENTS BY MAUD KELLEY

She must mean her mother married after moving to North Carolina, just as we would say "I bought it when I went to town" for the reason that if Rebecca Pace was old enough to marry in 1704, she would have been older than women usually are when her Aycock children were born forty odd years later. Even if 14 years old when she married, and born as late as 1790, she would have been in her fifties when her Aycock children were born. Winifred Aycock Lane was not the only Aycock child, it seems. The Will of Richard Pace confirms that Rebecca was still Rebecca Bradford in 1736, when the will was made. Yet Winifred makes no comment on her mother having been older than the average when her children were born. Nor does she claim her mother the oldest child, but only that she was the oldest girl, implying that there was a son or sons older than Rebecca. From the Barnabus history we have known that Richard was the oldest son, and that he was the one born in 1700. Therefore we know that Rebecca was born before 1704, but whether slightly before 1700 or slightly after, we do not know.

From the custom of the time of widows remarrying soon after their husband's death, is most unlikely that Rebecca remained a widow for twenty or thirty years before remarrying. From the fact that she had only two, Bradford her first husband probably did not live more than three to five years and there was a John Bradford listed in 1778 among the debtors of the estate of James Aycock children. James apparently being another of Rebecca Pace Aycock children, so this would imply that John Bradford and James Aycock were contemporaries, from the fact that Rebecca had several Aycock children, the probabilities are that Rebecca was born in Virginia not earlier than about 1698.

The James Pace of the 1719 land grant in Chowan was probably the brother of Richard Pace the III suggest that he may have been the founder of the Edgecombe-Johnston-Wake sub a family group.

NOBILE H. PACE ADDS.

One of the male descendants a Lane married the daughter of Colonel Vicks, for the town of Vicksburg, Miss. was named. Georgia Archives 1150 Peachtree St. N.W. Reported by Mrs. Ernest Waitt, page 130-132.

Jesse Lane born 7/3/1735 married Winnefred Pace Aycock in Halifax Co. Co. County N.C., her mother was Rebecca Pace Bradford (Wid). She was born 4-/11/1741; married 1755.

Winnifred Aycock says that she had two brothers Richard & James Aycock. She also says that Rebecca was the oldest girl and sister Mary next.

THE NORTH CAROLINA PACES

The Pace family of North Carolina has been historically honored as has the Richard Pace family of Jamestown, and again, it is a Richard Pace, descendant of the Richard Pace of Jamestown, who was honored.

The North Carolina colony was known as the proprietary colony because eight of the King's lords were granted large tracts of land in North Carolina, among them being Lord Granville.

It was Richard Pace who received a land grant from Lord Granville, one of the earliest made in the North Carolina colony. A copy of this land grant is today hanging in the North Carolina archives as a valuable historic document of that state.

George Pace and James Pace, too, received land grants, around the present Albermarle Sound, an area east of Raleigh. These three Paces came to North Carolina from Virginia.

North Carolina records reveal a Dempsey Pace, who was thought to be the son of Frederick. Though not definitely established, it is believed that Frederick was a later immigrant to America after the Richard Pace of Jamestown. Dempsey Pace is recorded as having been granted 640 acres of land for 84 months of service in the Revolutionary War.

The late Dr. Jesse M. Pace of Dallas, Texas, held that Frederick Pace was a later immigrant to America.

Descendants of the Dempsey Pace family moved into Tennessee and Kentucky and later settled in Clarke County, Alabama. From these Paces, the descendants moved into central and eastern Mississippi and many of them live in Newton and Lauderdale Counties today.

North Carolina records show a Burrell Pace, a Revolutionary soldier, settled in Polk County, North Carolina near Asheville and Hendersonville. Notable among later descendants of Burrell Pace is the late Columbus Pace, elected to the bench at the age of twenty one and served for sixty one years. His grandson, Judge Charles Mills Pace is today a judge at Spartanburg, South Carolina.

She thinks that the county Granville being formed on 1745 from Edgecombe Co., Cypress Creek is adjoining Wake Co., which was formed from Johnston Cumberland and Orange. The Paces apparently did not move, but the forming of the county place them in various counties due to county boundaries. It is possible that the James in Cumberland may be another James Pace.

The Henry Clay family of Leakesville, North Carolina is one of the old settlers. They being the descendant of Henry Clay Pace, the son of Captain John Pace, revolutionary war. They are successful in the area and are most helpful in supplying records.

Mrs. Ruth Pace Stevens one of five persons who helped me on the starting of this project from the Greenboro, North Carolina and helpful whenever she can, but is hampered by a family and business.

It would be nice if we had more records on North Carolina as it is one of our better states for Pace records and the names of Pace found in the states, have been mailed questionnaire, but haven't responded.

HOMER PACE

To write about the Pace's in South Carolina and not mention Homer G. Pace would not be in keeping with the Pace tradition. Mr. Homer Pace was a successful leader and a good citizen of this state, county and city. He served as the president of the South Carolina Power and Light Company until his death. He was a leader in all communities and sectional enterprises. He served for many years in the South Carolina historical association and left many valuable records. He was one of the early researchers of Pace geneology.

He was working largely on his own lineage. In doing so, he covered many areas and copied many records. After his death, his files were taken over by his daughter, Mabel Pace, who has been most cooperative, in sending copies of his record to my files. The North Hampton Company of North Carolina records occurred in this book are the works of Mr. Pace. There is a complete record of land deeds and chattle mortgages in this county in my files that I thought too voluminous to include where space is a premium. The Paces are indebted to Mr. Homer Pace for these records.

THE GEORGIA PACES

Georgia is often referred to as the debtor state, however, the Paces of the Georgia colony have through the years, not been as impoverished as the name might imply. Many of the Georgia Paces have accomplished much in life in material wealth as well as in respect from their fellowman for the services they rendered in making the state one of the richest in the South.

The Colony was originally settled by persons who were seeking new opportunities, many of them moving from other parts of the United States, and some coming from England seeking religious freedom and a new and more prosperous life.

The first Pace to move into Georgia was Richard Pace IV and his wife Elizabeth Cain, who came from North Carolina. They settled near what is now Augusta, Georgia. Richard's nephew, Stephen Pace, moved into the colony, as well as Richard's brother, Thomas, and his sons, Thomas and Nathaniel. Records will show that Richard's descendants and his nephews and grand-nephews are the forefathers of many of the present Georgia Pace families.

Records of St. Paul's Parrish, which is now Effingham County, show that a Samuel Pace moved into the Georgia Colony and settled there. The early parentage of the Effingham County group of Paces has not been established; however, it is thought that they were not new immigrants coming with General Oglethorpe into the Georgia Colony, but did come to Georgia from Virginia and North Carolina.

Many of the Pace families of Georgia and Florida are descendants of the Effingham County Paces. A descendant of the Effingham County group, the late Bishop Edward Aloysius Pace, a Catholic priest and educator, served as president of Washington University in Washington, D.C.

In the Revolutionary War records, there is listed a Captain Drury Pace as being one of the Georgia soldiers. He is the father of Reverend Barnabus Pace, who wrote the letter known as "Barnabus Pace's Letter". Excerpts of this letter may be obtained from Noble Pace for those who wish to have it. The descendants of the Drury Pace family were among the early settlers of the Mississippi territory, from which was formed the states of Mississippi and Alabama.

The author, Noble Pace, is a descendant of the Georgia Paces. His brother, Courtney C. Pace, often kids him about the Georgia Paces being debtors, "the reason we Paces are always in debt".

Among outstanding Georgia Paces of the present generation is Mrs. J. Schley Thompson, the former Helen Pace, who is the first woman assistant Vice President in Atlanta Clearing House banks. She now holds this position in the Fulton National Bank. Though a dedicated business woman, Mrs. Thompson is a gracious and charming Southern woman. She is a descendant of the Revolutionary soldier, Stephens Pace. (See her record in the family section in this book).

Mrs. Thompson's sister, Mrs. Lorena Pace Pruitt, served as mayor of Smyrna, Georgia. The father of Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Pruitt, Dr. William Tatum Pace, was instrumental in establishing public health laws of Georgia. The excellence of the laws was recognized by many other states, and many incorporated the pattern of the Georgia public health laws into the laws of their states. It was during Dr. Pace's service in the Georgia House of Representatives that many medical reforms sanitation and health measures were introduced and passed into the state Legislature because of the vigorous support of this well-known Smyrna physician.

Among notable public servants is Stephen Pace, now living at Americus, Georgia, who served ably for many years in the House of Representatives of the U. S. Congress. His sister, Mrs. Eugenia Pace Bell, has made an outstanding contribution to the patriotic societies of Georgia by her untiring work.

Mrs. Juanita Oglesby, a descendant of the Thomas Pace line of a later generation, of Valdosta, Georgia, is part of the family which helped develop the state of Florida in growing timber for pulpwood.

Scattered throughout Georgia, in almost every town and community, Paces today continue to lend their leadership and influence.

The City of Atlanta has honored the Pace family with the naming of a street in the fashionable section of the city as Pace Ferry Road.

The Paces moving into Mississippi territory were independent trail blazers, for they did not follow the already historically blazed paths such as Hernando DeSoto's path to the Mississippi River or Andrew Jackson's Military Road from Washington, D.C. to New Orleans. The Mississippi territory was formed from the Georgia Colony, which reached from the Atlantic Ocean to the Mississippi River.

From almost every nook and cranny in the civilized part of the nation, the Paces came to this new territory, which was almost a land of milk and honey, with its fertile soil, moderate climate, thick forest full of game.

The earliest known Pace settler of the territorial days was Solomn Causey who married Elizabeth Ann Pace in 1789. Some records say that Elizabeth Ann was a native of Holmes County in Mississippi Territory, however, there are indications that the two married elsewhere and moved there. Solomn Causey owned land in Holmes County in 1810. The children of this couple married into the Carpenter and Braumfield families. Their descendants are found today in Amite and Yazoo Counties in Mississippi, and Morehouse Parish, Louisiana.

Rowland, the historian, shows John Pace and Silas Pace living in Washington County, Mississippi Territory, in 1802. A John Pace appears later in records of Marion County Mississippi. It is not known if the two John's were the same person or if one was a son of an earlier John. Families who live in this area have not responded to the author's inquiries.

In the records of the War of 1812, there are the names of William Pace and Isom Pace (sometimes written an Isham). It is not known if the two were the same person or two different Paces. Isham Pace was one of the earlier sheriffs of Lauderdale County, Mississippi.

Even though the state of Mississippi was formed first from the Mississippi Territory and Alabama before they settled in Mississippi. There were four definite areas of settlement in Alabama.

In the mid-central east section, consisting of Talladega and Cherokee Counties and other counties formed from them, there are many descendants of the Revolutionary Soldier Drury Pace, a son of Richard Pace and Elizabeth Cain of the North Carolina and Georgia records. A number of Pace families reside in the area today.

The founders of the Clark County, Alabama, section were John Pace and Dempsey Pace, who came into the county about 1809. Some of their records are in the family section as well as the marriage records section.

Settling in Green County, Alabama was an Edmond Pace who had two sons, Edwin Pace and Also Pace, as well as a number of daughters. The two sons moved West and settled in Kemper County, Mississippi and surrounding areas.

In an area across the Chattahoochee River from Columbus, Georgia, in the counties of Russell, Lee, Macon and Pike, Pace families who settled there were for the most part descendants of the Revolutionary Soldier Stephen Pace. Some of the descendants of the Revolutionary Soldier Nathaniel Pace lived for a time in Houston County and later moved into Florida.

ALABAMA

A GLEANING INTO THE GREAT SOUTHEAST: OR CLARKE COUNTY, ALABAMA AND ITS SURROUNDINGS FROM 1540 TO 1882. BY T. H. BELL PUB: 1877

John Pace from South Carolina after spending about a year in Kentucky and another in Tennessee coming then with Dempsey Pace and a Parker family and some others through the Cherokee Indian territory and settled in 1809 about a mile and a half above Coffeetown. This party came with between 60/70 pack horses.

John Pace had eleven sons and three daughters, one daughter married Colonel Small. Eight of the sons had families; namely seven of these 1—Stephen, 2—James, 3—Dempsey, 4—William, 5—Thomas, 6—Richmond, and 7—Jessee. John Pace died in 1820. Richmond and Jesse are now living in Mississippi. William is living in Arkansas. This large family left Clarke Co. about 1821.

Dempsey Pace, named above, a brother of John Pace, probably, was a son of Frederick Pace of S. Car. He died in 1875 about 90 years of age. He had a number of sons among them 1—Thomas, 2—William, 3—John, 4—Alfred R., 5—Gilliam, 6—George and A. J., twins, 8—Joseph, 8—Burrell, and Natham. This Pace family was quite large. Some of these sons were in the Creek and Semiole war of 1836, and all of suitable age were in the Civil War.

Thomas Pace had three sons and two daughters. One son, William, is at the South Bend. The younger daughter, Miss Henrietta married a Dr. B. M. Allen of North Carolina who graduated from Lexington College at Lexington, Ky. in 1857 and settled in Clarke Co., in 1859. They lived upon the mountain and have five daughters, the eldest daughter, Miss Sophia married a T. J. Cowan. She died in a few years leaving a promising daughter and two sons. A. J. Pace lives near West Bend, is now a county commissioner.

John Pace and Burrell Pace are both living, one of them near Ulconush Church. He has a nice bathing pool.

THIS COPIED FROM PAGES 522-23.

Thomas J. Cowan who married Sophia Pace had daughter Willis, and two sons—Walter and Jerome.

E. S. Thornton about 1861 married Miss Sallie F. Pace; daughter of Alfred R. Pace, a granddaughter of Dempsey Pace. They had three daughters, Mary E., Annie, Willie, and sons Robert and Joseph. Thornton was a surveyor in 1842, served for 4 years as State Senator 1876-1880.

MATTHEW DOWNER PACE

He was born in Macon County, Alabama, December 5, 1867. He was named for an uncle, Matthew R. Downer. His primary training was received in the public schools of Auburn, Alabama, after which he entered the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn and completed the course with credit, receiving the degree of Bachelor of Science in 1889, and that of Civil Engineer in 1890.

He had several years experience as teacher in the rural schools before his graduation, and was assistant professor of mathematics in his Alma Mater for two years afterwards. He was elected professor of mathematics in the State Normal School (now State Teachers College) at Troy, Alabama, in 1891, in which position he remained continually until his retirement in 1941.

In 1924 Dr. Pace became a member of Pi Mu Epsilon, an organization which admits only those of distinction in the field of mathematics. In 1928 the University of Alabama recognized his eminence in his chosen field by conferring upon him the honorary degree of LL.D., and in the same year he was made dean of the State Teachers College. On September 1, 1936, Dr. Pace was elected President of the college for one year, and on September 1, 1937, he relinquished the office to Mr. C. B. Smith, his successor and resumed his former position as dean, which place he occupied until his retirement.

There are many other Pace families in Alabama, whose records have not been sent to the author.

First Pace's in Ala. John & Silas Pace in Washington Co., Miss. Terr. Rowland history. There are early Paces in Taladega Co., Jackson Co., Limestone County as well as other sections of Ala. Many of the children of Clarke Co., Ala. Pace moved to Miss. to Newton County. Rev. Edwin Pace was an early minister in Green Co., Ala. He had sons Edwin & Also Pace that moved in Miss. into Kemper County.

MISSISSIPPI

After the state of Mississippi was formed, the first Pace known to be living there was a Royal Pace. He left a will with a number of issues in Warren County, Mississippi, in 1827. In Warren County, Lane and Glass men married a number of Pace women.

One of the Lane men, who descended from Rebecca Pace, a granddaughter of Winfred Aycock, married the daughter of Colonel Vick, for whom the town of Vicksburg, Mississippi, is named.

THOMAS JERRERSON PACE, son of John Pace, one of the early settlers of Clarke County, Alabama, moved into Copiah County and married. He later settled in Newton County along with his brothers, Richmond, Jesse and Dempsey Pace. Many of the Mississippi Paces of today are descendants of these first three men. Dempsey and his children moved to Texas and settled at Waco and vicinity.

GEORGE PACE moved to Marshall County Mississippi from Wake County North Carolina. He is the ancestor of many Paces in Marshall and Tate Counties, Mississippi, Shelby County, Tennessee and Crittendon, Arkansas.

ALFRED GAINES PACE

ALFRED GAINES PACE, the grandfather of the author, was born in Elberta County, Georgia, in 1810, married in Pike County, Georgia, in 1840, and moved his family into Tate County, Mississippi, in 1870.

His sons were James Henry Randolph Pace, Edwin Lafayette Pace and Charles Franklin Pace. Edwin and Charles were twins. The town of Pace, Bolivar County Mississippi on the Bogue Phalia was named for James Henry Randolph Pace.

CHARLES FRANKLIN PACE, though physically handicapped and unable to walk, was one of the most active Paces in public life. He was a lawyer practicing in Tate County, later joining his brother, James Henry Randolph Pace, who settled and developed the town of Pace, Mississippi. Charles Franklin Pace served as postmaster for the town of Pace for many years and wrote a widely read newspaper column in the county weekly, which he called "The Queen City of Bogue Phalia". The column was a colorful account of happenings in the local village. For 12 years he served as Circuit Clerk of Bolivar County.

EDWIN PACE remained in Tate County until his death. He married twice and had a large family by each wife. These children moved into Memphis, Tennessee and eastern Arkansas.

A CHARLES MALCOLM PACE moved with his family (2 boys and 2 girls) into Pace, Mississippi from Jackson County, Alabama about 1908. He was not directly related to the Paces of Tate County.

Among the early settlers of the town of Pace was JESSE PACE, a son of James Henry Pace. After Jesse Pace's death, his widow asked her brother, Henry Clayton Bizell, to come and assist her in the merchantile business. Mr. Bizell married Patty Tucker, a daughter of Ida Holder Tucker, niece of the late James Pace. Some of these families still reside in Pace, Mississippi. Among them are Mrs. Zack Mitchell, sister of Mrs. Bizell; and Jesse Pace, Jr., the son of the late Jesse Pace and who is serving as postmaster; and Mr. Jewell Pace, brother to the compiler and who is now living in the Pace home.

There is a group of Paces living in Tishomingo County, who moved there prior to the Civil War. Politically active, members of this family have served in every public office of the county from its beginning.

A WILLIAM PACE moved into Carroll County, Mississippi, and settled in Old Middleton (about two miles west of the present town of Winona. One of Mississippi's first colleges was located in this community. A large majority of the descendants of William Pace now live in Madison County.

JAMES CALVIN PACE married and had 12 children of which we have records on 4 boys and 1 girl. The connection between James Calvin Pace and William is not definitely known at this time. The 4 brothers being James Minor Pace b. 1850, Jesse Clinton Pace b. 1845, Jefferson Davis Pace b. 1852 married Miss Magruder, and Charlie Carroll Pace b. 1855 marrying (1) Miss Wallinton (2) Lillian Florence. James Minor Pace Married Miss Holliday. The daughter, Mollie b. 1842 married Mose Reginald Spivey. Descendants of these people are living in Madison County today other than the descendants of Charlie Carroll Pace who are living in Winona and Greenwood and other Paces scattered in various parts of the country.

There is a family of Paces at Aberdeen, Mississippi that I have some records on but not enough to establish their identity in a particular group or section.

There is a JAMES POLK PACE family in and around Port Gibson, Mississippi. This family is from Tennessee, descendants of Wilson Reeves Pace

EDWIN and ALSO PACE, the sons of Edmond Pace who was born in Surrey County, North Carolina and moved to Greene County, Alabama, then moved into Kemper County, Mississippi and many of their descendants are living there today.

WRIGHT, a grandson of Langston Pace, of Macomb, Illinois, moved to Greenwood, Mississippi. He drilled the first artesian well that was drilled in Mississippi. He was a very progressive citizen owning the water and light franchise in the city of Greenwood and had the first bottled drink business there. There is a fountain on the courthouse lawn in Leflore County honoring him.

TENNESSEE PACE IMMIGRATION

When the first census of the U.S. was taken in 1790, Tennessee was still part of North Carolina. Tennessee Territory surrendered its name in 1796 when it became known as the State of Tennessee. The first settlers came from Virginia and North Carolina. The Pace & Janes families were among its early settlers, the former settled in Davidson County in 1800.

The family seem to divide at this time, one branch moved to Robertson County, the other to Rutherford County. Shortly after moving to Robertson County, William Pace, Sr., in 1809, purchased from Joseph Choates, 100 acres of land. The deed was approved in open court by the oath of John David and Joel Pace and ordered to be registered.

Among soldiers who volunteered in Robertson County, Tennessee in the war of 1812 were Alsa, William, Gideon, Dempsey & John Pace. Alcey (Alsa) Pace, priv. died 1815, Robertson Co., Tenn.; brothers were Gideon, Hardy C., John, and William; sister Patsy Pace.

In the heads of families; 4th Census 1820, we find on page 16, Dempsey Wililam, Sr., William Jr., and Joseph Pace living in Robertson County, Tenn. William Pace, priv., md Jan. 1807 Martha Shaw in Robertson County. William Pace died in that county about Oct. 18, 1835. The family later moved to Cheatam County, Tenn. In the same census, 1820, in Montgomery County, is listed Gideon Hardy & John Pace.

William H. (Hardy) Pace born 1825 Robertson County, Tenn. md Elizabeth Husky Sept. 25, 1844 in Robertson County, died Callaway County, Ky. 1885, and had son Thomas Alva Pace, born 1850 Cheatam Co., Tenn. among other children. His wife's name before marriage was Bettie Lee, descendant of Robert E. Lee. Both died in Calloway County, Kentucky.

PACE FAMILY IN RUTHERFORD COUNTY, TENN.

Listed as heads of family in Rutherford County in 1810, are William Sr., Wilson, James, William and Daniel Pace. Volunteers enlisting for the war of 1812, from Rutherford County, Tenn. include Wilson, Kinchon, James, William (b. 1773) and John Pace. John Pace, Private, md Sarah _____ d. 1815 (killed in War). James Pace, Private, md Mary Ann _____ d. 1815 Rutherford Co. Kincheon Pace, Sgt. md Nancy William Oct. 20, 1811 in Rutherford County, Tenn. (fought against the Creek Indians with brother Wilson. Kincheon died in Perry County, Tenn. March 15, 1840).

The fourth census of Tennessee taken in 1820 lists as heads of family in Rutherford County, Tenn. Sally, Marian, Tabithia, and William Pace. The same census for Hickman County, Tennessee lists as heads John, Kinchon, Wilson, Issac & Jerimiah Pace.

Pace - Janes Family. Richmond Pace, born 1799 North Carolina md Sarah _____ b. 1800 in South Carolina. Richmond Pace was head of a family in Franklin County, Tenn. in 1820, probably marrying there. The fourth Federal census for Franklin County shows the following entry: Richmond Pace, one male (16-26), one female (0-10) one female (16-26). No other Pace listed. Census for the same county 1830 shows: Richmond Pace 2 males under 5 yrs., one male (20-30) 1 female under five, 2 females (5-10) one female (20-50) one female (60-70). No other Pace listed. Richmond Pace was next mentioned in Badford County where he was listed as head of family in 1840 and 1850 census. Later, we find records of Richmond Pace in the town of Greenville; Mulenberg Co., Kentucky, where he was head of family in 1860 census. No further record found. It is believed that he and Sarah died in this county shortly after the close of the Civil War.

The U.S. Census for 1830 shows several counties with Pace families. Hickman County, Tennessee shows Jackson Pace, Kinchon Pace, Wilson Pace, Isque Pace. Haywood County shows Dempsey Pace 1, Dempsey Pace 2, William Pace, C. S. Pace later to Bentonville, Arkansas), Joel Pace, Alsy Pace, and Henning Pace (moved to Lawrence Co., Missouri). Dyer County shows Wililam Pace; Anderson County shows Abner Pace; Lincoln County, Jarves Pace; Humphries County, William Pace; McMinn County, Robert and Leonard Pace; Montgomery County, Hardy C. Pace and John Pace; McNairy County, Sam D. Pace and John D. Pace; Perry County, Elizabeth Pace; Robinson County, William Pace; Claiborne County, John Pace; Williamson County, Thomas Pace; Shelby County, Thomas Pace; Sumner County, Rebecca Pace; Morgan County, Also Pace, and Rutherford County, Sarah Pace. In Rutherford County are also found Ezekiel Pace, and three William Paces, heads of separate families.

In Haywood County, Tennessee the 1830 U.S. Census lists five Pace families. They were those of Dempsey, Alcy, C.S. (Christopher Stump), Joe, and _____ Pace. The latter moved to Lawrence County, Missouri. Christopher Stump Pace moved and settled in Benton County, Arkansas and many of his descendants are living there today. It is thought that Dempsey moved to Texas but this has not been established. We have nothing on the other two families.

THE KENTUCKY PACES

Some of the Paces coming into Kentucky took the long way around, others took the hardest way and still others merely moved across state lines. And what a state they moved into—the topography ranges from mountains to delta, from the famous ‘bluegrass’ to forest, from race horses to cattle. Into this state, the Paces moved in three distinct migrations.

One group came across the Southeastern corner of Pennsylvania, down the Ohio River and into Kentucky. This group settled in the area around what is now Louisville, Kentucky. Another group came from North Carolina through the Cumberland Gap, settling in Harlan, Bell, Clay, Leslie, Perry and Magoffin Counties. The third group came from Georgia through Tennessee and into Kentucky.

Among the early settlers of the state was a Spencer Pace who came to Mulenburg County in 1806. Records of Kentucky land grants show that he was granted 120 acres of land in Christain County in that year. Descendants of his son, Daniel, are living today in Marshall and Calloway Counties.

There was a settlement of Paces moving into Clark County and many descendants of the family live in the county today.

A Joseph Pace moved into Shelby County and some descendants later went into Iowa and Nebraska. In this county there are two of the female Paces, namely Mary Pace Baskett who was the wife of one of the early circuit riders of Kentucky and Rachel Pace who married Martin.

Among other early settlers of the state was a Reverend John Pace, the son of Benjamin Pace and Frances of Campbell County, Virginia, and his wife, Margaret Erwin Pace, who moved into Kentucky through Tennessee and later descendants moved into Calloway County, Missouri.

Perhaps the most outstanding Pace family of Kentucky is the William Pace lineage. The William Pace lineage is William Ingram Pace who was the son of Captain John Pace and Elizabeth Nunn of Henry County, Virginia and he moved into Kentucky from Henry County, Virginia and settled in Metcalf County. His descendants, through his sons Thomas Nunn Pace and Henry Schooling Pace, live today in this county and Cumberland and Barron Counties.

Mrs. Daisey Pace, who was an Alexander, was the mother of Fred Pace, an outstanding agriculturist and businessman of that area.

A relative of his, Stanley Don Pace, was drafted to run for sheriff of Cumberland County in 1933. Mr. Pace ran thriving road-building and rock quarrying firms as well as his 665 acre farm. Ironically, he was from a staunch Democratic family and his wife, Pearl Carter Pace, was from an old-line Republican family.

Mr. Pace was elected, the first Democratic Sheriff in Cumberland County in 57 years. Cumberland County law didn't allow a sheriff to succeed himself, so the county folk did the next best thing. They elected Mrs. Pearl Pace, who became the first woman sheriff in the history of Kentucky. Because of her splendid service in the office, Mrs. Pace earned the title of ‘Pistol-Packin’ Sheriff’ because of her success with putting moonshiners in their proper place—in jail. Her husband died during her last term in office. In December, 1953, she was sworn in as one of three members of the War Claims Commission.

The author's records contain many other Paces in Kentucky whose records have not been established.

ROBERTSON COUNTY

William H. (Hardy) Pace born 1825 in Robertson Co. Tennessee. Married Eliza Husky Sept. 25, 1844 in Robertson Co., died in Calloway County, Ky. 1885. They had a son Thomas Alva Pace born 1850, Cheatam, Tahn among other children. Thomas Alva married Bettie Lee, a descendant of Robert E. Lee, both died in Calloway Co., Ky.

HISTORY OF KENTUCKY, BY KERR

Thomas Alva and Bettie had issue — Joseph, Claudia, Chas. W. and Ben F. Two died in Hot Springs, Ark. about 1918. Ben F. moved to Oklahoma. A daughter, Eunice married a M. T. Adam and is living in Paducah, Ky. today (1961).

Other Pace families in Kentucky: Spencer Pace came to Mulenburg Co., Ky. in 1806. He had son Daniel who married Lettice Hurst. Part of these descendants are still around Murray and Paducah. Murray Pace from Virginia moved into Clarke Co., Ky. about 1810. They married into the Judy and Groomes as well as the Ramsey families of this county. John Pace and Margaret Irwin moved into Montgomery Co., Ky., lived a while and moved on to Missouri.

THE ARKANSAS AND TEXAS PACES

An old story, handed down through the generations, says that the Paces going west crossed the Mississippi River at Memphis, Tenn, saw a sign that said "To Texas". It is said that those who could read went on to Texas and settled there, and those who couldn't read thought they were in Texas and actually settled in Arkansas.

However, the Arkansas Paces have proved through the years that they could read, for they have made notable accomplishments for themselves.

One of the most outstanding Paces of Arkansas is Frank Pace, who served as Secretary of War under the administration of President Harry Truman. He is now president of a leading New York industry. His parentage is from a line of Paces in Fluvanna County, Virginia. Mr. Pace moved into Eureka Springs, Arkansas, from Texas, and later lived in Little Rock, Arkansas.

The earliest of the Arkansas Paces is believed to be Twitty Pace. He is shown as living in Pope County, Arkansas, in the 1830 census. His son Alfred Pace served as Circuit Court Clerk in 1835. He later moved into Fannin County, Texas, where he died.

William Pace from Clarke County, Alabama, moved first into Mississippi and later into Ouchita County, Arkansas. Some of his descendants are living in Camden, Arkansas today. One of his descendants, Dr. J. M. Pace, who graduated in medicine at Tulane University and practiced in Dallas for a great number of years, wrote a record of the Pace family. The author has tried unsuccessfully to obtain a copy of this record. One of William Pace's sons moved back to Alabama and other descendants are living in Mobile and Bessemer, Alabama.

William Pace was the son of John Pace, who is said to be a son of the North Carolina Revolution Soldier Dempsey Pace. Dempsey Pace is thought to be the son of Frederick Pace, a later emigrant into the county.

Carrol Pace, listed in records by Carroll County, Arkansas, is thought to have been the son of Christopher Pace (The census lists him as C. S. Pace) from Haywood County, Tennessee, as shown by 1830 census. The Christopher Pace family was not listed in the 1840 census of Haywood County and it is known that they moved into Arkansas.

Noah Pace of Pocahontas, Arkansas, is from Marshall County, Kentucky. He is a descendant of Spencer Pace, who moved into Marshall County in the early 1800's.

As for Texas, Sam Houston is said to have reported to President Andrew Jackson, "It is a state that has rivers without water, men without honor, women without virtue, flowers without fragrance. Five dollars in gold coin is too great a price." If he could only see Texas today, he might eat his very words.

There are many Pace families in Texas, but the author has been unable to locate enough to trace their lineage.

One of the nation's outstanding scientists of the Twentieth Century was a Pace and a Texan. She was Dr. Lula Pace, who died in 1925, and was a member of the Clarke County, Alabama Paces. Dr. Pace was a native of Temple, Texas and had taught at Baylor University in Waco, Texas, for 20 years prior to her death. She was named to "Who's Who in America" and had written scientific textbooks that were used in many universities and colleges in the nation, as well as at Baylor. At the time of her death, she was one of the few women in the southeast holding a doctor of philosophy degree and the only Ph. D at Baylor. She was considered one of the foremost authorities on botany and geology in the United States.

Lands issued before 1859 in Texas according to the Records of Land Office at Austin. These were sent in by Mrs. Buford C. Cirtis of Fort Worth.

INDIANA

We find a George Pace in Delaware County in 1820; George — Johnson and Hardy in Bartholomew County in 1830; James Pace in Lawrence County in 1820; James Pace was still living there in 1830; Matthew in Bartholomew County in 1830; Matthew in Delaware County in 1820; Rebecca in Knox County in 1830; and William and Bartholomew in 1830, and William Knox County 1820.

The following Paces took out land grants in the following counties: Daniel Pace — Knox County, James Pace — Knox County, John Pace — Lawrence County, James Pace — Lawrence County, James — Lawrence County, Daniel Pace — Marin County and Dubois County.

In the present day we have a group of Paces who have an annual meeting in Buffton, Ind. Their ancestors being one Chester Pace being born in Ohio. It is the compilers opinion (only) that this Chester Pace will be a descendant of one of the four brothers that imigrated to Pa. from England.

There are Paces residing on whom we have records in Evansville, Terre Haute and Indianapolis, Ind. One Jerome Pace is in charge of the Indiana Sanitorium and whose father did some work on the Pace family.

ILLINOIS

The Paces in Illinois of which we have records consist of Joel Pace who moved and settled at Mt. Vernon, Illinois and many of his descendants are living there today. A great many of the families are collateral lines such as Allens, Pavy, Winkler, and McCeery. A Langston Pace settled at McComb, Illinois and many of his descendants are settled there today.

MISSOURI

There are many good records in the files on the Missouri Paces. The compiler regrets that he is not in a position to identify colonial lineages but appreciates their efforts in working on this project.

There are Paces in many of the other states whose records are not completed enough to be included in this publication.

REVOLUTIONARY RECORDS

To publish a book on a family as old as the Pace family in America and not mention the persons taking part in the Revolutionary War would not be in keeping with such an important event. The Paces in this conflict were divided in their loyalties. The records show that the eldest son of Richard Pace and Elizabeth Cain, a James Pace and his sons fought in the British Army and their properties were confiscated and they were exiled.

There was a William Pace who was mentioned in the Naval Battle on Lake Erie under the command of Commodore Perry. The compiler regrets that he failed to make a notation where he found the information recorded. The information was that he was given a citation for heroic services.

There is no complete roster of the members of the Revolutionary forces. There were two divisions of services in this conflict, namely the Continental Lines and the various state militia. In Virginia we have John, Joel, Newsome and a John Pace of Campbell Company Joseph, Robert and a William Pace who received a land grant in Patrick County Virginia. There are doubtless many more that I have not found.

In North Carolina we have James Pace, Solomon Pace, Stephen Pace, Thomas Pace, Nathaniel Pace, Burell Pace and Dempsey Pace.

In Georgia we have Captain Drury Pace, and a William, Thomas and Nathaniel Pace. It is thought that Nathaniel and Thomas, mentioned in Georgia, are the same men mentioned in North Carolina. It is hoped that in future publications that a more complete list of persons engaged in this conflict, and more detail of their service will be found. The Paces took part in all other wars such as the War of 1812, Mexican War and the War between the States. A Captain James Pace, who is the ancestor of one of a Mormon Group, lost his life in the Battle of New Orleans

THE FOUR ORIGINAL BROTHERS

New information has come about Michael, Daniel, Wilhelm and James Pace who lived near Philhower Cross Roads, Hunterdon County, New Jersey, in the middle 1700's. Mr. Norman Wittwer of Oldwick, New Jersey, is Historian of the Washington Township Society. He has a fine collection of old records and is an authority. He lectures on New Jersey history. He claims that Chambers in his book, written in 1895, confused the German immigrations. He says the Paces did not come from Germany. The ship they came on did not head for the Hudson River and did not sail from Rotterdam.

The facts are that two, only two, early German immigrations were directly from the Palatine, Germany. The Palatines came from Neuward, Sassenberg, County, Germany. Those two Palatine Groups were urged to come to Penn's Colony in America. Handbills telling of the glories of America were distributed among them because it was known they were displeased in their homeland. Then came and one ship load of Palatines went up the Hudson to former Dutch settleemnts. The second ship load went to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Those Palatines went to Pennsylvania and to South Jersey. Queen Anne (1702-1714) helped to send them.

After the French and Indian War many former Palatines moved north and northwest in New Jersey. The Palatines were hard-working peasant dirt farmers — good people. But at the time the Paces came, great hordes of refugees from France, Switzerland, Germany, Holland and England were living in England in the south port cities. There were so many of them that they were a problem to house and feed. The reason for the collection of refugees was not only religious, but political and social.

There is a record of six ships which carried these mixed nationalities to New Jersey. These six ships went to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. It was then the greatest American port and the Pennsylvania Colony welcomed all. Religious freedom was assured.

The Paces and those who came with them did not sail from Rotterdam. They sailed from English ports on the Channel. Paces had lived in England since the 1200's. In (1483-1536) Richard Pace, the Tudor Diplomat, written by Jervis Wegg, he tells of Richard living at the close of his eventful but sad life at Southampton Waters.

It is possible that Michael, James, Daniel and William were English. The family lore of Robert Pace's father (N.Y.C.) about some of his ancestors coming from Alsace-Lorraine may apply to the women they married in America. The rest of the family lore that spoke German and French is not odd. They lived in an area of mixed nationalities and learned languages other than English. Therefore the Virginia Paces and the Paces who went to New Jersey might surely have been English cousins.

Another historian, Mr. Christopher Lanner of the Long Valley Historical Society of New Jersey, claims that many people who came early to German Valley came up from the Virginia settlements. Settlers came out to New Jersey and Pennsylvania from Connecticut where the religious intolerance was such that they moved westward into this area which was claimed by the Connecticut Colony. Land grants overlapped, making borders unsure.

Many Europeans were so anxious to come to America that they (if they were very poor) came as "indentured servants" or "redemptionists". This meant that many sold themselves to work free of charge for from one year up to seven years to pay for the passage to America of themselves and their families. They "bound themselves over" to work on plantations until they had paid off their debts.

LONG VALLEY N. J. GROUP
(HACKETTSTOWN AND CALIFON, N. J. GROUP)

Original Daniel and his son — John Frederick.

ORIGINAL MICHAEL

Michael Pace's daughter, Elizabeth, was brought up by her uncle, Judge David Welsh. In the ruined church cemetery in Long Valley today (1961) is the grave of Conrad Rarick 1709 — the stone is not clear in date of death.

Ann Rarick 1728-1798, his wife. This Conrad might be Conrad the First mentioned in many records as the father of the Rarick brothers whom the Pace girls married. The stone is written in German. Early Welsh graves are there. Today (1961) there is an inn in Long Valley, New Jersey. It is old. Mathias Welsh was the first owner. Note that John Pace married Elizabeth Hiles. The Hiles family came to America with the Paces. The Hiles family name appears in Ohio later, and one Elias Pace of Ohio married Martha Hiles in the 1800's.

On a visit to Major Jacob Pace's grave, it was observed that the stone cutter had cut MR. JACOB PACE.

His son's stone grave read MAJOR JOHN PACE. A flag flew over the son's grave. This was an error. The stone cutter either could not spell MAJOR or he did not have room. It was over the father's grave that the flag should have flown. It was the father, Major Jacob, who earned his rank in the arm. The son John's title was honorary.

Michael, Daniel, William and James Pace, According to Chambers and Hoff, these four brothers were on the rolls of a German Reformed Church in 1747. Another authority, Mr. Norman Wittwer of Washington Township, New Jersey, claims the date as 1763 when Michael kept a tavern. Michael after 1774 went to Wyoming Valley, Pennsylvania, with his son, David. In 1784 Michael was on the Rolls of Northumberland County, Pennsylvania. In 1790 Michael was on the Rolls of Luzern County, Pennsylvania, where he warranted 400 acres of land and was included in the Pennsylvania Census with his son, David. In 1796 Michael was on the Pennsylvania Tax Rolls.

(The three counties mentioned above are adjacent to each other along the Susquehanna River. Today the old twons of Plymouth, Kingston, Forty Fort are west of the river. Wilkes-Barre is east of the river. Several Paces live in these cities today.)

Michael died in Plymouth Township, Pennsylvania, and is buried there. His son, David, went on to Ohio, Perry County. His son, Jacob, stayed in New Jersey. He is buried in Oxford Cemetery, Hazen, New Jersey. It is a Presbyterian Cemetery. Jacob is next to his wife, Mary Iffler, and next his son, John, and his wife, Sarah Frome. The graves are there today, 1961. Old Jacob was a Major. His son's title was an honorary one. Michael's son, John, and his wife stayed in New Jersey. Michael's daughters, Elizabeth and Susan, married the Rarick brothers, Conrad Rarick and William Rarick. Elizabeth, her husband Conrad Rarick, and his second wife, are buried in the ruined church cemetery in Long Valley. (Long Valley in early days was called German Valley.)

The original Daniel Pace was on the records of Tewkesbury Township in 1780. He had 100 acres of land. This Daniel Pace married Marie Barbara. Their son, John Frederick Pace, married Catherine Beam. John Frederick was born July 22, 1770. Their (Daniel's and Marie Barbara's) daughter, Catherine, married John Beam (born before 1754 - died 1844). Bartham Beam (Boehm) came from Rotterdam Sept. 15, 1752. He lived at Philhower Cross Road. He was probably the father of John Beam. This information is from a book, "German Valley Beams" by Walter Mingus Beam and published by him in San Francisco, California. He served in World War II. John Beam fought in the Revolutionary War. He had a farm in Hunterdon County, New Jersey. It is reported from another source that the Boehms or Beams came from France with the dashing Frenchman, Vernoy, who brought a group of settlers. The children of John Frederick Pace and Catherine Beam were: Michael Pace; Daniel Pace, born 1803, died 1879; Barbara Pace, born Dec. 26, 1800; Elizabeth Pace, born 1796, died 1882.

The Pace land was close to the Howell land according to an old map. Michael Pace married Mary, called "Pop" Howell. Daniel Pace married Rachel Howell (1802-1872). His second wife was Catherine Ann (1845-1876). The three, Daniel, Rachel and Catherine Ann are buried in the old Presbyterian Cemetery at Fairmount, New Jersey.

Barbara Pace married Issac Howell. Elizabeth Pace (called Betsey) married Nathan Howell. Observe 2 Pace sisters and 2 Pace brothers married 2 Howell sisters and 2 Howell brothers. The parents of the Howells were: Isaac Howell (born June 7, 1759) died Aug. 19, 1832 married Rachel Bunn (born Dec. 21, 1761, died Sept. 7, 17—). The information about the Howells was sent by:

FAMILY SECTION

We regret that we could not include many family lineages in this section and particularly regret that we had to condense the ones that we did use. The families that are included in this section are not complete in all generations as of this date.

WILLIAM PACE

William Pace served in the American Revolution in the Virginia Line. Jilison's Land Warrants lists Warrant No. 1895, October 20, 1783 — "200 Acres of land to William Pace for services in the Revolution." This was confirmed by the Virginia State Library which states: "L. O. Military certificate No. 1896, p. 380, William Pace, private, Continental Line, enlisted for the war and served three years Oct. 20, 1783. No further record."

Deed Book No. 3, Scott County, Virginia, P. 35, gives the following description of land in Scott County, owned by William Pace Sr. William was dead before Oct. 21, 1815, when this land passed to William Pace Jr.

Deed Book No. 3 in Scott County, Virginia, Page 35: This indenture made this the twenty-first day of Oct. in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifteen (1815) between William Pace Sr. of the County of Scott and the State of Virginia, of the one part and William Pace Jr. of the County of Scott and the State aforesaid of the other part. Witnesses the said William W. Evans, James Bellamy, George Wininger, Talton Evans and Edward Pace for and in the consideration of the sum of one hundred dollars to them in hand paid, the receipt where of is acknowledged, hath by these presents doth grant bargain, sell, alien enfeoff and confirm unto the said William Pace Jr., his heirs, assigns forever, certain tract or parcel of land containing Seventyfive (75) acres, be the same more or less lying and being in the County of Scott, aforesaid, and granting to the said William Pace Sr., deceased, by patent bearing date the the Eighteenth of February on the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and ninety-two (1792), with all the singular the wood, water, water course, profits, commodities hereditaments and appurtenances what so ever to the said tract of land belonging or appertaining and the reversion, reversions remainder, and remainders rents and issues there and all the estate, right, title, interest, property claims, demands of him, the said William W. Evans, Talton Evans and Edward Pace in the County of Scott, in the county of the aforesaid, James Bellamy & George Wininger of Hawkins County, State of Tennessee, our heirs to the said and end every parcel thereof, either in law or equity to have and to hold the said seventy-five acres of land with the appurtenances unto the said William Pace Jr., his heirs and assigned forever and the said William Evans, Talton Evans, Edward Pace, James Bellamy and George Wininger, our heirs and assigns, the lawful title claim and demands of all and every person or persons whatsoever shall and will warrant and forever defend by these present. In witness whereof the said William W. Evans and Talton Evans, Edward Pace, James Bellamy and George Wininger, hath hereunto set our hand and seals the day and year above written. His, William W. Evans mark, X, James Bellamy His Edward Pace His Talton mark Evans — X George Wininger.

This land bore a patent date of Feb. 18, 1792, William Pace was alive at this time, but dead by or before Oct. 21, 1815.

Since this settlement involved only 75 acres of land out of the stated 200 acres, there must be other land involved. However, no further land grants can be located. However this settlement of estate establishes the fact that William Pace Sr. was the father of Edward Pace and that William Pace had sons and daughters: 1 William Pace Jr.; 2 Edward Pace; doubtless the daughters married William W. Evans, James Bellamy, Talton Evans or George Wininger. It is a known fact a daughter Cynthia Pace, married James Bellamy.

A very thorough search has been made of Scott County and all available records and no other definite data has been found. William Pace was alive Feb. 18, 1792 and dead prior to Oct. 21, 1815. His wife was also dead since she did not sign the settlement deed in 1815. A grandson of Edward Pace insists that his grandmother was a widow by the name of Wininger and that the Pace children, and children of Mrs. Wininger, a widow before she married William Pace, intermarried. Perhaps the George Wininger who signed the deed was a stepson of William Pace or a son-in-law.

No census record was taken in Tennessee until 1830. In the Tennessee census of 1830 is found the name of Richard Foster and wife, both 50-60 years old, 3 boys in the family, two ages between 15-20, one 10-15, one girl 10-16. Hawkins County, Tenn., first settlement was in 1772 in Carter Valley extending from Cloud Creek to the Top Mountain of Berch Creek, all in North Carolina. Settlement of Hawkins County was confined chiefly to Carter's Valley until about 1780. History of Tennessee, 1887, p. 873 - 880 by Goodspeed. Goodspeed lists a James R. Pace, Clerk of the county court, Hawkins County, 1862 - 1865, p. 880. This accounts for the statement that Susannah Foster was born in North Carolina. State boundary lines were unsettled. Susannah was born in Virginia on the borderline of North Carolina.

EDWARD PACE (WILLIAM)

Edward Pace was born in Virginia in 1866 and died in Clarinda, Iowa, in 1890, age 84 years. These dates are verified by census records and tombstone records. Photo of tombstone attached in Memory Cemetery. Edward Pace was the son of William Pace, mother's name unknown, but said by a grandson to be a Mrs. Wining-er. L. C. Pace, son of Edward, states that Edward Pace married first Elizabeth Potter and had four children: 1. John Pace; 2. Daniel Rice Pace, born 1818 in Tenn., wife Martha born 1821, see census 1870 Taylor County, Iowa; 3. Cythnia Pace, married James Bellamy; 4. George Pace died as an infant.

Edward Pace married second, Oct. 15, 1820, to Sussannah Foster in Hawkins County, Tenn. Married by James Johnson, Justice of Peace. Her bond was signed by Burgess Foster said to be a brother. Susannah was born in Tennessee in 1804 and died in Clarinda Iowa, Dec. 9, 1863, age 59 years. See photo of graves. Buried in Memory Cemetery. Edward Pace had the following children by Susannah: 5. Richard Foster Pace born Aug. 18, 1821, died 1911, New Market, Iowa; 6. William E. Pace, served in the Confederate Army together with his three sons; 7. Charles Wesley Pace born Apr. 1, 1827, in Tenn.; 8. Joseph Alexander Pace, died in infancy; 9. Elisha Center Pace, born 1829, died 1863; 10. Lewis Clark Pace; 11. Elisha Center Pace, born 1829/30, a son of ward Pace and Susannah Foster, received a captain's commission in the Union Army. He died March 23, 1863, and is buried in the Jefferson Barraoch Cemetery, St. Louis, Mo. He married and left a son Elisha Center Jr. Elisha Center Pace Jr., was cared for and raised by his uncle Captain Charles Wesley Pace Sr.

12. Rebecca Pace, daughter of Edward & Susannah was born near Knoxville, Tenn., Feb. 3, 1825, and when a child moved with her parents to southern Indiana. There she met and married David Hawkins in 1839/40. Six children were born to them. They moved to Colorado about 1890 and lived in or near Loveland, Colo. On Aug. 17, 1898, David Hawkins died. Rebecca died Dec. 8, 1905, and both are buried in Loveland. David Hawkins served in the Confederate Army.

David Hawkins owned slaves and sent his Confederate pay to his wife. Though times were hard, she saved the money in case the South lost. She saved $1,000 but it was Confederate money and worthless as money, in addition the slaves were all lost. Contributed by Bertha Hawkins, a daughter of David and Rebecca Pace Hawkins).

William Pace and his three sons served in the Confederate Army and one of the boys lost his life; one was killed after his return home; the third son died of indigestion caused by eating black beans that hung too long on the trees. William Pace married and is said to have had 17 children: Marion, John, Mollie, Julius and others, names unknown. (Memoirs of L. C. Pace).

Richard Foster Pace, born Aug. 19, 1821, son of Edward Pace & Susannah, married Nancy Wienegar, born July 26, 1826, and died Aug. 17, 1905.

13. Lewis Clark Pace, born June 12, 1835, in Scott County, Va., died June 26, 1925, in Whitehall, Montana, buried in Lincoln, Neb.; 14. Rebecca Pace born Feb. 3, 1825, near Knoxville, Tenn., married David Hawkins. He died in 1898, and Rebecca died in Loveland, Colo., Dec. 8, 1905; 15. Mary Pace married Hartlem Scarlett; 16. Nancy Ann Pace married Samuel Scarlett, cousin of Harlem; 17. Feruby Pace married James Scarlett; 18. Susannah Emeline (Emmy) Pace married Nathan Helmick; 19. Elizabeth Jane (Betty) born Dec. 10, 1846, in Indiana, died Feb. 28, 1928, Eaton, Colo. She married Simon Alkire. Buried in Ault, Colo

The order of the foregoing children is not definitely known, but it has been established that this Pace family moved from Scott County, Va., and Tennessee, through Kentucky, into Indiana, thence into Iowa where census records show many of them in Page & Taylor counties, Iowa.

Edward Pace and his second wife Susannah Foster Pace are buried in Memory Cemetery, Clarinda, Iowa. Census records of 1800 are very meager and all of 1810 census records were burned in War of 1812. None available. Edward Pace was called Neddy. A Mr. J. C. Coley of Gates City, Scott County, Va., was the man who searched out the settlement of the land of William Pace in 1818 (see page on William Pace). Mr. Coley remembered some interesting facts of the early days. One was the first execution for murder in Scott County. Edward Pace was said to have served on that jury. Feeling ran high for some reason and it was claimed that the jury left the county for safety. This story not authenticated except by old settlers' stories by Mr. Coley and a Mr. Gogers, both long dead. Whatever the reasons, the Pace family went north, as is well proven.

The marriage of Edward Pace & Susannah Foster is on file in Manuscript files in the Lawson McGhee Library in Knoxville, Tenn. By his two wives Edward had 17 children although the order of birth is not definitely known or established.

LEWIS CLARK PACE (EDWARD) (WILLIAM)

Lewis Clark Pace 3, son of Edward Pace 2 and Susannah Foster Pace, was born in Scott County, Va., on Posdom Creek, June 12, 1835, and died in Whitehall Montana, June 26, 1925. He is buried in Nyuka Cemetery, Lincoln, Neb. He was a prominent citizen of Lincoln until his death.

Lewis Clark Pace married first, Mary Magavhay, who was born about 1842 and died in 1867, age 25 years. They had two children: 1. John Wesley Pace, born June 26, 1861. He married Maude Botin; 2. Edward Pace, died young.

Lewis Clark Pace married second, Aug. 19, 1866, Vash'ti Jane O'Dell. She was born Jan. 21, 1843, Warrick County, Indiana, and died Nov. 6, 1931 in Lincoln. They had the following children: 1. Asa H. Pace, born Nov. 8, 1868, died Sept. 7, 1892, in Sheridan, Wyoming, enroute to home in Lincoln, Neb., having joined a civil engineering corp. in the Bingham Mountains for the Burlington Railroad; 2. Lewis Clark Pace (Clarkie), born Sept. 10, 1870, Hamilton, Mo.; 3. Isaac (Ike) Eugene Odell Pace, born May 29, 1873, Hamilton, Mo.

Lewis Clark Pace moved to Lincoln, Neb., because of the educational advantages of the city. He was raised and went to school in or near French Lick Springs, Ind. When 18 years old taught school (district) and also at a so-called Select School.

The Pace family went to Iowa and L. C. took a claim near what is now New Market. He sold this land to his father, Edward Pace, and Edward sold it later to his son, Richard Foster Pace.

When the Civil War started, L. C. entered the Army of the North as a private at St. Joseph, Mo. At the Battle of Lexington, he was captured. Later he was elected chaplain of regiment. He was at the Battle of Shiloh (Pittsburg Landing). He was a prisoner at Mobile and after exchange he was promoted to the rank of major. Later he was made Lt. Col. and with this rank was honorably discharged.

The members of the Pace family served on both sides in the Civil War. The brothers were divided and feeling ran high. L. C. Pace recalls a most tragic time in the lives of the two opposing brothers in army life.

When L. C. was in force march to take a place just outside of a small town, as he rode at the head of his men a fair Southerner stepped out onto the upper gallery of the house, waved a scarf and called, 'Hurrah for Captain Pace', then screamed and rushed into the house. L. C. Pace said he felt rather demoted as he had not long had his commission and elevated to colonel. Later he found himself and fellow officers quartered in this mansion, the owner presiding at the table.

He learned that two daughters were served their meals in the attic or third floor, for safety in case of attack. L. C. was informed that he looked so much like Captain Pace, who had just evacuated that locality that they thought that it was he that had returned. L. C. sadly admitted he was his brother but that, unfortunately, they thought differently and fought on different sides. It made him quite ill to think what might have happened if his brother had not had the discretion to withdraw. Brother might have fought brother.

Afterwards the two lovely daughters served them at meals and showed him over the plantation since L. C. Pace showed clearly he was well bred and had an abundance of good background.

After Lewis Clark Pace returned from the army in 1865, he resumed ministry, and at the same time studied law, being admitted to the bar to practice law in the circuit including Chillicothe, Hamilton, Mason and that portion of North Western Missouri.

Lewis Clark Pace was a famous public speaker and in much demand. He took his first degree in Masonry in St. Joseph, Mo. Some forty years later he took the second and third degrees at the same lodge. His burial was a Masonic one.

Lewis Clark Pace was listed in the City directory of Lincoln as Lewis Cass Pace and this was repeated in several of the listings.

The foregoing was prepared by the late Mrs. Clara S. Payne.

THE HENRY COUNTY PACES, NAMELY, JOHN, JOEL, NEWSOME, & REUBEN

The compiler warns you to beware and read the following statements with caution:

We do not wish to influence you but give you the information that has been given to us and we will endeavor to give the authority for each statement. Please accept this explanation and govern yourself accordingly.

The Paces of Henry County, Virginia is a very important segment of the American Paces. Their lineage back from Henry County to the Jamestown immigrant has been worked on and the findings will be listed below:

It is an opinion only that Captain John Pace, Joel, Newsome and Langston were brothers, and one DAR lineage includes another brother Ruben. We quote from Adam Clarke Johnson's History of Jefferson County, Illinois "Joel Pace was born 1762 and married Mary East in Henry County Virginia in 1782; Joel Pace and his wife were 14 and 12 years old when the DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE was signed. He served for 18 months. He is ancestor to most of the Pace's in Jefferson County Illinois. He was the son of another JOEL PACE — by an odd coincidence his mother was a WEST and his wife an EAST. He had five brothers and three sisters. They all lived in Henry County Virginia. The brothers were John Pace, Langston and Reuben; the sisters were Millie, Leisure, and Susan — they married respectively, Thompson, Cox and Shelton. Joel, Langston, William and Thomas moved into Kentucky — settling in Woodford, Cumberland, Breakenridge, and Bourbon Counties, Kentucky. Thomas had a son in McDonough County, Ill., William I, that died many years ago. The family is represented in Missouri, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, as well as many Southern States."

Another lineage of the Daughters of the American Patriots gives the following lineages of Captain John Pace to the Jamestown immigrant. This record is submitted by Mrs. O. B. Pace of Farmer City, Illinois. The record of Mrs. O. B. Pace was prepared by professional geneologists of Richmond, Virginia. It was started by Mr. Robert A. Stewart and completed by Mrs. Anna Waller Reddy. It names the parents of John Martin (Captain John) Pace as John Pace born 1711 Middlesex Co., Va., Virginia who married Susanna Reason in 1739. The parentage of John Pace and Susanna Reason were John Pace who was born 1689 in Middlesex Co., Va. who married Elizabeth Newsom in 1707. The parentage of John Pace and Elizabeth Newsom was John Pace who married Mary Knowles. The said John Pace was the son of George Pace and Sarah Macock who were in turn the son of Richard Pace and Isabell, the original Pace immigrants. The reference to the above is the will of John Pace and Elizabeth Newsom which is found in the Virginia State Archives (DAR No. 112115), The Index to Virginia Genealogy by Robert Stewart, and Hill's History of Henry County Paces and the Charles City record book from 1665-1666, and the Isle of Wight County, Virginia by Bodie. These are the authorities for the lineage of O. B. Pace to Captain John Pace of Henry County who married Elizabeth Nunn first and Polly Stone second.

You will find in this record the work of Roy C. McCormack of Lincoln, Nebraska and Mrs. Daisey Pace of Marrowbone, Kentucky that covers the same group of people and whose records you will find in the family section in part. The record of Capt. John Pace who married Polly Stone (second wife) is complete in most every detail. The record of the children of his first marriage to Elizabeth Nunn, the male line of Wm. Ingram and John Martin, Jr., are reaching completion. We have what is said to be the descendants of Thomas Pace, who is also a son of Captain John Pace.

Taken from Adam Clark Johnson's History of Jefferson County

Joel Pace was born July 28, 1762. He married Mary East in Henry County Virginia in 1782, thus Joel Pace, Sr. was 14 and his wife 13, when the Declaration of Independence was signed. He was a Revolutionary soldier and the ancestor of all Paces in Jefferson County, Illinois.

He was the son of still another Joel Pace. By an odd coincidence, his mother's name was West and his wife's name East. He had four brothers and three sisters. They lived in Henry County, Virginia. Joel, William, Langston and Thomas came to Kentucky, but not all at the same time. They settled in Woodford, Cumberland, Breckenridge and Bourbon counties. Thomas had a son in McDonough County, Illinois, William I, who died many years ago. The family is represented in Missouri, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and nearly all Southern States.

Captain John Pace, a brother, remained in Virginia. The three sisters, Millie, Leisure, and Susan were married respectively to a Thompson, a Cox and a Shelton.

About 1820 Joel Pace, Sr. moved to Jefferson County, Illinois, where he settled and lived until his death in 1831. He had six sons and six daughters, all of whom lived to maturity.

He served for 18 months in the Revolutionary Army under Captain Cyrus L. Robards, and Colonels Heath and Daniels. He applied for a pension in 1829.

INTRODUCTION TO RICHARD PACE AND ELIZABETH CAIN PACE

Richard Pace the IV, fifth generation from Jamestown — namely, (1) Richard Pace and Isabell (2) George Pace and Sarah Macock (3) Richard Pace and Mary (4) Richard Pace and Rebecca. Richard Pace IV was born about 1700 in Bertie County Precinct of North Carolina and died about the time of the Revolutionary War. He married Elizabeth Cain about 1723 and to them was born 8 sons and 4 daughters. In this group of children was Drury Pace, born October 1745, marrying Mary Bussey, and he died in 1801 in Ga. He was a Revolutionary soldier and father of many children among which was the Reverend Barnabus Pace, a hardshell Baptist minister who wrote the letter outlining this family history. (Note: This letter is available from the historian in mimeographed form). We list below the lineage of Richard Pace the IV and Elizabeth Cain:

The following children were born to them: James Pace and a Dupree (French) — Silas Pace mr Mary Newsome died 1790 — Charles Pace md a Garnett — Dreadzil Pace md an Indian — Thomas engaged to Mrs. Hammond — Drury Pace b. October 1745 md Mary Bussey died 1801 — Barnabus Pace b. 1747 and (1) Agnes Aycock (2) Polly Casey — Knowles Pace (Will March 4, 1783) — Richard Pace md Sarah Day (his second wife) — a daughter md O'Daniel — a daughter md a Cox — Sally Pace md Fort.

James Pace, the eldest son of Richard Pace and Elizabeth Cain, married a French lady, a Miss Dupree. He had several children. He and his son were Tories, three of them having commissions in the British Army. He had a crippled son, Samuel, who stayed in this country and had children. The father and three sons were sent out of the country and are said to have gone to Halifax, Canada. This was told by a grandson, James.

Knowles Pace was not mentioned in Barnabus Pace's letter. He was a bachelor. Knowles Pace left a will in Wilkes County Georgia, July 19, 1776, Prob. March 4, 1783 leaving his estate to Leroy Pace, the son of Barnabus, a minor at the time.

Thomas Pace, another son of Richard Pace and Elizabeth Cain Pace, in his mid-years became engaged to a widow, Mrs. Hammond. It is not definitely shown whether they married or not but he did leave property to Mrs. Hammond. The records show that she at the death of Thomas deeded the property back to his brothers and sisters.

Silas Pace, born about 1726, died 1796, married Mary Newsome (she was a Tory's daughter) and had the following children: John — William b. 1749, Silas b. 1751, David b. 1753.

Charles Pace, son of Richard Pace and Elizabeth Cain, married Mary or Catherine Garnett and had a son, Dreadzil Pace who married Elizabeth Roseborough. Wilkes County Records, Davidson Vol. 1, Page 34, Dreadzil Pace, minor son of Charles Pace asked that Barnabus Pace be made his Guardian July 21, 1778. Dreadzil Pace lived to be about 55 years of age. He amassed a large fortune, had two sons Thomas and Dreadzil. Thomas was a duelist fighting with Mr. McBee and Mr. Hawkins near Macon and there were possibly others. (Note: Miss Annie Jones, a geneologist says that Charles md twice (1) Garnett (2) Miss Shackelford and that there was a son Silas of the second marriage. But later records show that Mary Shackelford was a witness to a record which would indicate that the Barnabus Pace record is nearer right than Miss Jones research.)

CLARK COUNTY PACES: JOHN AND DEMPSEY AND THEIR DESCENDANTS

In Clarke County, Alabama we have some earlier Pace settlers; namely, John and Dempsey Pace. The record found in the Dallas Public Library by the late Dr. Jesse M. Pace relates that these are the sons of Frederick Pace who came to America prior to the Revolutionary War. It is reported that Dr. Pace did considerable research on the Pace family. We quote one of our workers "these records looked as large as Webster's dictionary". We have written all known descendants of this man but have not been able to find these records.

A Dempsey Pace is recorded as a Revolutionary soldier from North Carolina. He served for 84 months and received a grant of 640 acres of land for his services. Dr. Pace of Dallas tells of this family moving into Tennessee, thence into Kentucky and then into Clarke County, Alabama. The death of Dempsey Pace is recorded in Clarke County, Alabama, _____ date. It is reasonable to assume that a person serving in the Revolutionary War would be approximately 20 years of age and the death in Clarke Co., Alabama does not coincide with this calculation. I do not intend to dispute the statement of Dr. Pace but am inclined to think there is another generation in this family line.

Mr. Joseph Vernon Pace of Jackson, Mississippi is given credit for many hours of work in obtaining information on the Dempsey Pace descendants of Clarke County, Alabama. We list below the records taken from the statement of Dr. Pace and from "Gleanings from tGreat Southwest" by T. H. Bell which is a history of Clarke County and its early settlers. Dates given on Frederick and Elizabeth are estimated and the John and Dempsey Pace descendants are taken from the Clarke County., history. THE PENNSYLVANIA MORMONS

We give below the record from Michael, Sr. through Elisha Pace and Eliza Baldwin to Edwin Pace. We regret that it is necessary to make the above statement on Michael down to Edwin, but since we are not sure, we do not wish to mislead anyone. (See the Four Brothers).

Life Sketch of Edwin Pace — Written by his daughter, Nellis Louisa Pace Holbrook.

My father, Edwin Pace, the son of Elisha and Eliza Baldwin Pace, was born in Hebron, Licking Co., Ohio Dec. 8, 1831. He was baptized in Nauvoo, Ill. in 1840 by William Smith, an uncle of the prophet Joseph Smith. His parents joined the Church in 1837, at this place. His father Elisha Pace died in his birthday in the year 1845. After the death of Grandfather Pace, my grandmother Eliza Pace, with her small family of three children, two boys and one girl, and my father Edwin, George Milton, and Amanda, moved from Ill. to Puncan Village about 200 miles from Winter quarters. The family endured the severe trials incidental to the Winters of 1846 and 1847 in Puncan Village. From here the family moved to Omaha in the spring of 1848, where grandmother Pace with her three children and a widowed sister, Sarah Baldwin Smith, joined the Mormon Train bounded for Utah, with two yokes of cattle, and one horse and wagon in Lorenzo Snow's Company, arriving in Salt Lake Valley on Sept. 15, 1848. The same year they moved to Sessions Settlement, now Bountiful, Davis Co., Utah, where my father, Edwin Pace, resided from that time on until his death. They had many hardships after arriving in Utah. He built a willow hut with one room. He used grass sod around the outside. In order to cook meat or get heat for warmth they would build a fire in the center of the hut, and the smoke would pass out of the top. They would pasture the Jordan River bottoms, and lived mainly on mustard greens. It was always necessary to ration themselves with what food they had, but they were blessed with the milk from two cows. However, these cows wintered out, picking their own living, so the milk was not very rich. In the grasshopper year, father Edwin Pace was the only one in that section of the county that had a full crop of grain. In order to save the crop from grasshoppers he plowed three furrows around the grain and made trenches for the water to run in. With the help of neighbors and his family, they would "shoo" the hoppers into the trenches, at the end of which were placed sacks to catch them. They then dug large holes and covered them up. In 1849, Edwin Pace had a desire to go to the gold fields in California. But before he decided to go, he had a dream that he had gone, had gotten gold, and on the way home was robbed. Upon arising the next morning, the dream disturbed him so that he told his mother, and she persuaded him to stay home, which he did.

After coming here as a boy of seventeen, his life was filled with interests and duties connected with the upbuilding of this state. He married Mary Jane Atkinson May 2, 1853. Twelve children were born to them, eleven girls and one son. He had built a one room log house before he married. When he married, he built an eight room adobe. His fourth home was a red brick of seven rooms, built in 1885, and is standing today in 1958 as good as ever. His wife, Mary Jane Atkinson, died Mar. 2, 1881. He married Mary Jane Brown May 5, 1857. To this union was born nine children, four sons and five daughters. Mary Jane Brown Pace died Mar. 10, 1906.

During the days of Johnson's Army, he served as a guard. He also helped in Indian troubles in the early history of Utah. He assisted in colonizing Arizona. He held many places of trust during his life. He was a member of the first Town Board of Bountiful City, served as a school trustee. In religious circles, he was a True Latter Day Saint. He served as First Counselor to Bishop William Brown. His father in law, then councilor to Bishop Richard R. Egan, of the South Bountiful Ward, Davis Co., Utah, for a period of eighteen years. In 1897, he was ordained a Patriarch. At the age of twelve years he received the gift of talking in tongues and interpretation of them which stayed with him through his life. He had a wonderful gift of healing and had the most even temper. No one ever heard him speak a harsh word. He was a brick mason by trade. He laid the brick of his own home and three of his sons homes which are standing today, Sept. 8, 1958.

He lived to a ripe old age of 86, died Feb. 13, 1917 at South Bountiful, Davis Co., Utah, at his son, Edwin, Jr.'s home, and buried in The Bountiful Memorial Park Davis Co., Utah.

LANGSTON PACE

The following data was sent in by Roy McCormick and was received by him from Mrs. Daisy Pace and Mrs. Emma Raggon. Previously we show Capt. John Pace along with brothers Joel, Newsom and Reuben. Many think Langston was a brother. The relationship of the Henry County Paces has never been definitely proven.

JOHN PACE

John Pace lived and died in Henry County, Va. John Pace and his wife_____were parents of 13 children, and my only record is that of the two sons named Langston and William Ingram.

Langston is my ancestor.

Langston Pace b. Oct. 8, 1770, d. May 20, 1846, m. Millie Nunn; William Ingram Pace, b. July 1773, d. Dec. 18, 1843, m. Sallie Nunn. The marriages were in Virginia where the Pace and Nunn families resided in Henry County, Va. Sallie and Millie Nunn were sisters whose parents were Ingram Nunn and Elizabeth_____Nunn, who lived and died in Virginia. The two couples moved to the region of Marrowbone, Ky., probably shortly after their marriages.

Two other sisters of the Nunn sisters were married to Henry Clarke and Ingram Alexander in Virginia, and they moved to the same locality in Kentucky. Descendants of these four families have family records in Bibles covering the Pace, Nunn, Alexander and Clarke families.

The above information was received from Mrs. Daisy Pace, Marrowbone, Ky., who is the widow of James E. Pace, who was a great grandson of William Ingram Pace listed above. March 4, 1942.

LANGSTON PACE (BY DAISY PACE)

Langston Pace, b. Oct. 8, 1771, d. May 20. 1848, m. Millie Nunn, b. May 14, 1775, d. Oct. 8, 1877 (102 years). Children: Capt. William I. Pace, b. Feb. 10, 1809, d. May 7, 1855; John M. Pace, b. Langston Pace was the son of John Pace of Henry County, Va., and Millie Nunn, his wife, the daughter of Ingram Nunn and Elizabeth Nunn, who were residents of Virginia. The Pace and Nunn families emigrated from Henry County, Va., to the region of Marrowbone, Ky., about 150 years ago. Langston Pace and wife Millie Nunn are buried on their farm near Marrowbone. Their birth and death dates were copied from the markers by W. A. Garmon, the present owner of the farm and handed to Mrs. Daisy Pace. She mailed them to me in Feb. 11, 1942.

The above information was received from Mrs. Daisy Pace of Marrowbone, Ky., she being the widow of James E. Pace, who was the son of Henry S. Pace, who was the son of Thomas Nunn Pace, who was the son of William Ingram Pace, who was the ???? brother of Langston Pace. The question marks about this relationship are added by N. H. Pace whose research does not agree).

Captain William I. Pace and Sarah Voster were my grandparents by my mother Fannie Belle Pace. See separate record. (This copied by Noble H. Pace, Oct. 23, 1961, Columbus, Miss.).

We find many fail to understand the correct procedure in filling out the family record sheets and we offer this explanation hoping it will help you in filling them out.

Fill out the first form for your own family. In case of a male this will be the husband. The father listed under the husband is your father, and the wife is your mother. Give her full maiden name and the other information listed under the wife's heading. The next set will be for your father who will be the husband and the father on his sheet will be his father and your grandfather. Please list your name along with the names of your brothers and sisters in the order of their birth with as many dates as you may know. We would rather that you send this in even if dates are incomplete. You may learn these from other members of your family and forward to me later. The next sheet is for your grandfather, and the father under this heading will be your father and his brothers and sisters will be your uncles and aunts on the Pace side.

Please list on the back of the sheets the addresses of all living adults listed on the front of the sheets. In the event of the death of your uncles or aunts we would like the names of one or all of their children so that they may be contacted for more information.

if there is someone in your family who has the family Bible or who has kept these records we would like to have their address. If you should send this letter to such a person to be answered please advise us to whom you sent it so we may follow it up and see that the information is obtained.

In the event that you are filling this out as a Pace girl you will list yourself as the wife with the full name of your husband at the top. Then after filling out this sheet, follow the procedure as outlined above for the male line. In the event your father is not a Pace, follow the female line back until it becomes a Pace connection.

AD INTERIM

Had this publication been more complete, I would have chosen the Latin, "finis", or end, as the last word. However, as the incompleteness of records show, the Latin, "ad interim", or in the meantime, is a better choice of closing.

A few weeks ago, my Sunday School teacher, discussed one of the Ten Commandments, "Honor thy father and mother, that thy days may be long upon the earth." It is with this thought in mind that I ask you to consider very seriously taking a few minutes or hours of your time, as the case may be, and search your family records for any material that is now invaluable concerning the Pace family line.

Your cooperation "in the meanwhile", as I am preparing to publish a more complete, bound volume of the Pace family, would be a lasting tribute to your forebearers.

As shown by the Jamestown incident and the few notable Paces I have mentioned in this publication, we are one of the pillars of the American society in the service of our fellowmen. Historical incidents and distinguished personages in our line should not, and will not, if I succeed in accomplishing my goal, be shunted to the darkest corners of our nation's history. We have much of which to be proud, and only you can help me in spreading our story to those who are in ignorance.

Many Paces have contributed to this book and have worked diligently in assisting me in obtaining their family records and even those of Pace lines not directly connected. I cannot express in these lines my gratitude for their service.

Hours of work, pages of type, letters, reading, record collecting, research, have all gone into this publication, but it will not, and must not, be the final publication for the Pace family.

This hobby of mine has turned into a full-time occupation and has helped keep me from having, perhaps, a nervous breakdown as a result of my heart condition. I am not asking for myself that you contribute to the Pace Society of America and its subsequent publications, but rather for the generations to come, I ask that you assist me in securing family records that will be a source of never-ending pride for our children of tomorrow. Partially, in this way, we will be giving honor to our family ancestors who have contributed much to our nation.

During my years of research on the Pace family line, I have received some duplication of records. This publication is an effort to avoid such duplication and save time in working on my future publications.

Even though many Paces have generously contributed monetary gifts toward this publication, I have still been somewhat limited for funds. It has been necessary for me to employ a typist and a person who could assist me in writing narration for the publication. Much more will be needed for future publications, but I feel that if you are sincerely interested you will do everything possible to support me in my effort.

I have sought to include the most important family records in this publication. There are many more in my files that I could have used, but I based my judgment of choice on those that have seemed most important and valuable. If you have sent me records that are not included in this book, I assure you that they are in safe-keeping and will be included in a full-length publication. Space and the cost of publication limited me in the inclusion of all my records. I sincerely hope that you will understand the reasons why your records are not included, if they are not in this publication.

There is much interest in genealogy in this century. The local library in my city has just added a genealogical section to its facilities and a copy of this publication will be presented for its shelves. It would be a matter of family pride to have a handsome bound volume of the Pace family line on the shelf of every library in the country. Because of the cost of publication, this dream may not be accomplished, but at least, copies could be placed in libraries of areas where Paces live. A number of copies of this publication will be loaned to libraries around the country. Should my plans for a bound volume succeed, and that is my immediate goal, now that this publication is finished, it would be a gesture of much esteem on your part to present a volume of that hoped for publication on the shelf of your hometown library.

For the preservation of our distinguished family line, won't you, if you are not already a member, join the Pace Society of America?
